

Magical Time at Maya

Posted on April 29, 2013 by Janet Muniz

On Sunday, April 28, Maya was honored to be the final display point for the complete The Contemplative Photographer's Alphabet, a traveling exhibit of small canvases featuring original photography and poetry by multimedia artist and author Diane Walker. This show has traveled the United States, appearing at numerous events and locations promoting introspection and compassion.

“Several of the canvases left our studio Sunday in the arms of happy new owners,” says owner/manager Shannon Aldrich Payne. “Diane has graciously allowed us to continue showing the rest of the collection in our practice studio for one more week, for the enjoyment of those who could not make it to the studio on Sunday for the viewing.”

Maya’s Spring Celebration also featured a kirtan, led by Maya instructor Emily Fish. “It was another magical time at Maya,” Shannon says. “Thank you to all who joined us in the celebration of springtime and all the sensual pleasures of the evening. Given the enthusiastic response, we will be doing this again, soon!”

-Photos taken by Janet Muniz

Maya Currents is the voice of Maya Whole Health Studio, publishing fresh blog posts on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Sign up for an email subscription by entering your address in the Follow Maya Currents form on the right and follow instructions.